About Snorkeling -

Snorkeling is the practice of floating on the shallow sea waters while equipped with a buoyancy jacket, diving mask, a shaped tube called a snorkel, and fins. Use of this equipment allows the snorkeler to observe underwater creatures with relatively little effort.

Snorkeling is the easiest and safe method to observe underwater life for swimmers and non swimmers in a natural setting without the complicated equipment required for scuba diving. Knowledge of swimming is not required for snorkeling.

Snorkeling Locations - About Thinadhoo

Thinadhoo Island is an inhabited island in Maldives with an excellent house reef suitable for snorkeling. There are very few tourists in this island. The reef boasts of crystal clear water and it facilitates maximum exposure of marine wildlife while snorkeling.

Marine Wildlife Sightings

Marine wildlife sightings include Parrot fish, schooling snapper, barracuda, surgeonfish, , start fish, big-eye trevally, Napoleon wrasse, flute mouth, hawksbill turtles, angelfish, anemone fish, & Groupers to name a few. Few other residents include black tip sharks, white tip sharks, octopuses, giant morays, lionfish, shrimp, lobsters, sea cucumbers and nudibranchs of all shapes and colors. Please note sighting of wildlife is subject to luck.
